Texas Lutheran College Choir from Seguin, Tex., will appear in a concert of sacred music at 8 p.m., on Feb. 10 in Knights Gym.

Sponsored by the Wartburg choir and the Castle Singers, the Texans are currently celebrating their 30th anniversary as a touring organization. During these many years they have won the acclaim of critics and have come to be called "The Best in the South-West."

Engelstad Directs Group

Director of the well-known a cappella choir is Prof. Paul Engelstad, now in his second year at Texas Lutheran College. A native of Chicago, Ill., he has earned his degrees from St. Olaf College in Minnesota and DePaul University in Chicago.

Prior to coming to Texas Lutheran College he was choral director at the University of Texas and taught voice at Luther College in Iowa.

2 New Faculty Members Coming Next Semester

Pastor Dell

Two additions will be made to the Wartburg faculty, according to Dr. J. O. Chellevold, dean of faculty. The Rev. Robert T. Dell will take up teaching duties for the second semester, and the Rev. Herman Diers will replace the Rev. E. A. Shick as college chaplain May 1.

Pastor Dell, a native of Altoona, Pa., received his A. B. from Thiel College, Greenville, Pa., and his M. A. from Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa. He is now completing work on his doctorate in Systematic Theology with minors in Psychology and Pastoral Counseling at Boston University, Boston, Mass.

Presently living in Weirs Beach, N. H., he is married and has two children. He served in the parish ministry three years at Indiana, Pa.

Pastor Diers, Trumpet editor 1946-47, graduated from Wartburg in 1949 and from Wartburg Theological Seminary in 1952. He presently serves as chairman of the Stewardship and Finance Committee, Canada District.

Pastor and Mrs. Diers and three children, live in South Burnaby, a suburb of Vancouver, British Columbia.

When the new chapel is completed, he will be in charge of arranging vespers, spiritual counseling and Sunday services.

Spiritual Emphasis Week Coming Feb. 1; Forell, Engelbrecht To Lead Convos

Sunday, Feb. 1, will mark the beginning of this year's Spiritual Emphasis Week. Theme for the week is "Law and Gospel." Activities will officially start with a student worship service Sunday morning in Knights Gymnasium.

Both convos that week will be devoted to spiritual emphasis. On Tuesday, Dr. George Forell, Professor of Systematic Theology, Chicago Lutheran Seminary, Maywood, Ill., will be the guest speaker. Dr. A. J. Engelbrecht, Professor of Old Testament at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, will lead Thursday's convo.

WYOMING BOUND,

Hagen Looks West

Departing Hagen

By Grace Jahn

Horace Greeley said, "Go West!," and Wartburg's Ernest Hagen is taking his advice.

Casper, Wyo., is the destination for Hagen, who will take on new duties there as the director of the Casper Civic Symphony Orchestra.

Hagen came to Wartburg in 1952 from the graduate school of the State University of Iowa, Iowa City. He took his undergraduate training at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Not only has Hagen produced the largest band in Wartburg history, but he feels that the band is now at a point where it could develop into one of the best musical organizations in the Midwest.

In addition to the Wartburg Band, Hagen organized the Wartburg Community Symphony, now in its seventh season, having increased from two concerts a year to five a year.

Hagen's new position in the oil center of Casper will consist of both musical activities and the administration of concerts.

"The orchestra itself," said Hagen, "is a going concern of about sixty members."

However, he commented, "I'll miss Wartburg very much, especially the Band."

Wartburg Applies For NDEA Loans

Wartburg has applied for federal loans provided by the newly enacted National Defense Education Act, Student Loan Section, according to Herb Engelbrecht, college business manager.

Approval must also be secured from the American Lutheran Church Board of Higher Education before Wartburg can use the act, which provides 40 million dollars in the first year for student loans. Any student may borrow up to one thousand dollars on the program.

Wartburg's share of the money allotted is estimated at between 20 and 25 hundred dollars, according to Engelbrecht, who will be in charge of loan administration. He has not received student application material as yet.

Press Scholarships Open For Applicants

Applications for the Wartburg Press Scholarships totaling $300 must be made by Feb. 1. Scholarship blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Margaret Garland of the Wartburg Journalism Department.

Eligibility requires a 2.5 overall grade point average and at least one year's experience on any of the three student publications here. Students working in an editorial capacity in the news bureau are also eligible.

Final awarding of the scholarship, which may be divided among several persons, is based on need, ability and journalistic interest. American Lutheran Church Board of Publication will make final selection.

Art On Display

Fifteen sketches and drawings by contemporary world famous artists are now on display in the Fine Arts Center through Friday, Jan. 23.

Adolf Dehn and Ben Shahn are two artists whose works are on display. The drawings are valued at more than $3,000. Circulating Exhibition Program of the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, Minn., has made the display possible.

Senate Selects SBP Committee

Student Body Project Committee was appointed by the Student Senate Executive Committee Tuesday night. Project chairman, previously approved, is senior Jack Reents.

Those selected were senior Barbara Clasen; junior Joel Diemer; sophomores Don Lehmann, Lorraine Fiegen, Tom Van Wyngarden, and Janet Rueber; and freshmen Mary Wilharm and Bob Niemann.

Give With The Good Garb!

Less than five years ago, Wartburg students were caught in the throes of the "blue jeans, T-shirts and bobby socks era." Such slovenly habits were not just the result of student economy, but a result of widespread social starvation permeating the entire atmosphere of Wartburg. Even in these dark days, the well-meaning cry of an almost forgotten few was, "Let's get rid of the Iowa Conference look."

In the fall of 1956, steps were finally taken by the administration to decrease the amount of blue jeans purchased as "official Wartburg attire." Dress Up Night became a reality — well, almost. The howls of an objectionable few who had already stocked their wardrobes with "official togs" were heard clear across the Cedar River.

Acting correctly, Student Senate decided that the matter should have been voted upon by the students and not thrust upon all "dungaree dolls" without warning. The measure was still passed by an overwhelming majority of the students.

One understandable protest often cited by incoming and veteran student body members today is that "There's nothing to do on Dress Up Night." After a short tour of the cafeteria, chapel and TV Lounge in the Union, the average student generally pauses for a few moments, looking as though he had just been "stood up" for a big date, notes by the big hands on the wall that it is only 7 p.m., breathes a dejected sigh and goes back to his room by way of the library.

The Senate's Student Activities Committee has decided to toy with the problem at present to see what can be done to improve activities surrounding Dress Up Night. A traveling dress up night has been suggested to the committee, but this, too, might involve a complex scheduling on the part of everyone.

Wednesday may not always be crowded with activities, but the idea of having a constant reminder to dress up, which seems to be the most notable service performed by this date, is something the Student Body should retain.

Avoidance of "police" tactics in enforcing Dress Up Night has resulted in better all-around appearances of students, rather than the original, one-night fashion show. The ideal situation would be continuous neat dressing on the part of students, thereby outdating the one-night tradition.

We've come a long way since "Iowa Conference look" days. It should be the hope of all students that this development process continues on a reasonable level.

Study in contrasts: this weekend and next.

Second semester is a time to improve — bigger and better mistakes!

Knight Life

By Don Claggett

This is the week! Final exam week always presents the same picture: at 2 a.m. the dorms are as lighted as they are at 7 p.m., students are in their rooms with books piled high in the corner and with desk in the middle of the room. Three or four students gather in one room, and they all quote the same old line — "Anyone for pinochle?"

When we went visiting a tonsilitis victim, who lives across the hall, we took in a copy of the Wall Street Journal, thinking he might like something to read. After returning from math class, we were stopped in our tracks by our sick friend's comment: "Where in the deuce is the sports page in this paper?"

Leave it to a freshman! When asked what Christianity course he was going to take next semester, the naive frosh exclaimed, "My roommate said to take The Life and Love Letters of Paul."

Height of Ambition: The guy who said, "All I have to do is 'ace' the Ottersberg final, and I'll get a 'B' in the course."

People are funny, and the best way to gather material for a column is to sit in the Den and eavesdrop. Here is the latest of the overheard dialogue:

4 pointer: "How did you do in the last test?"
2 pointer: "Not bad."
4 pointer: "What was your score?"
2 pointer: "50 per cent."
4 pointer: "That's awful."
2 pointer: "Oh, I don't know — my standards aren't very high."

Question of the Week: "What are you going to do over the semester break?" Classic reply: "I think I'll go to church that Sunday as usual."

Basketball game tonight! Upper Iowa is a conference game, and the contest between the Knights and the Peacocks is always a thriller. A word is given to the spectators in view of last year's final seconds — Watch the basket, not the clock, in the final minutes of play.

There is always a way out of studying for some. One Knight had to miss a special group review session in his American Literature course because he had to go down to the bowling lanes to practice a few lines for his bowling class final. Can't understand why he prefers the ten pins to Emerson.

Here's a hot one! South Wing Centennial had a fire drill at 10:45 p.m. Monday night. Wartburg Hall had one at 7 a.m. the next morning. Now, really! Did they think it would take a fire that long to spread across campus, or did it take the girls in Wartburg Hall that long to get dressed?

Good luck in the finals, gang, and don't forget that Rome wasn't built in a day. Come to think of it, though, — it took only one day to burn.

STUDENT OPINION

Time Lack—Reading Lapse, Says College Press Poll

Minneapolis — (ACP) — College students are notoriously short of time. By the time they have finished the reading assigned to them each day, there's little time left to do much reading for pleasure.

Still, an early 1958 survey conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press National Poll of Student Opinion shows that, in general, more students prefer to read books than magazines in their spare time. Further analysis of the data indicates that coeds are substantially stronger in this feeling than are college men. In the survey, 58 per cent of the women interviewed and only 45 per cent of the men said they preferred books to magazines for leisure time reading.

But what about the type of books they read? Because of the great world-wide interest in Boris Pasternak's "Doctor Zhivago," Associated Collegiate Press decided to find out how many of the nation's college students had read that book, or any other written by Pasternak.

In late 1958, the following question was asked of a representative cross-section of American college students:

"There has been quite a bit of discussion lately about the Russian author Boris Pasternak, who was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature but who finally refused it. Have you by chance read anything written by him?"

When the entire sample is analyzed together, results show that only 11 per cent of all the people interviewed had read anything by Pasternak. "Doctor Zhivago" is undoubtedly the one work contributing most to this total. Eighty-nine per cent of the total sample had never read any of Pasternak's work.

	Men	Women	Total
Yes, have read something by Pasternak	18%	5%	11%
No, have not read anything by Pasternak	82%	95%	89%

Peacocks Try To Fowl Knights At 7:30

By Steve Van Guilder

Axmen take the court against the Upper Iowa Peacocks tonight in Knights Gym at 7:30 in an attempt to record a 4-1 entry in the Iowa Conference.

In last season's meeting of the two teams, Upper Iowa gained two victories in its season of 18 wins and four losses. In the first game, the Peacocks took a 55-54 decision in overtime action. The second meeting of the two quintets found Upper Iowa again on top by two points, 70-68.

Eb's Tiding Over

Coach Eb Eischeid will be entering his fourth season at Upper Iowa with the return of five lettermen and prospective candidates from last season's "B" squad.

Returning from last year's team are: Bob George, a 6' 2" junior guard from Hammond, Ind.; Francis Cabalka, Independence, a 6' 2" senior guard; Loren Larson 6' 2" sophomore forward from Waterloo; Milt Mohs a 6' junior from Postville in the forward position and Bill Walter from Lansing, Ill.

Knights Downed A La'Crosse

LaCrosse took command in the final seven minutes last Monday night to defeat the Wartburg Knights 82-75 in a non-conference basketball game.

LaCrosse held a 39-35 edge at the intermission, but Wartburg came back in the second half to tie the score and take a short lead before LaCrosse took over for good. John Tuecke was the high scorer for the Knights and the game with 20 points. This loss gave the Knights an 8-3 record.

Center John Tuecke is averaging 18-8 points per game to lead Knight scoring, while guard Dave Jensen tallies 12-5 for eleven outings.

Picking Up Splinters

By Wilbur Flachman

Some folks say that the Iowa Conference is out of it. Gone! No prestige, no order, no consistency in policy among its members and a bushel of other charges — most of which are true. These critics have plenty of material upon which to base their arguments.

• • • •

We'll say our loop isn't completely dead. It has been ill for many moons. It secured a doctor last year when Les Duke took over as commissioner. Many thought the change would aid the future health of the ailing patient. Momentarily he did give it a shot in the arm — if nothing else by merely holding the position of commissioner.

Earlier this week, however, he shoved the league a step closer to its grave. He gave a wrong prescription. Just as an M.D. breaks the medical code, Duke was responsible for a direct violation of the rules of his conference.

Tuesday morning's Des Moines Register carried the story of how five University of Dubuque players were reinstated after having played in a Holiday tournament over Christmas vacation. A Parsons College cager, Ray Young, had already missed some important contests because of the same infraction, but was reinstated at the same time.

• • • •

Duke's decision wasn't a result of a judgment case or a misinterpretation of rules. It was direct violation. Here is what the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Conference rules say in simple black and white: ANY SQUAD MEMBER, WHO AFTER MATRICULATION IN ANY COLLEGE, ENGAGES IN ANY ATHLETIC CONTEST WHILE IN ATTENDANCE AT THAT COLLEGE AS A REPRESENTATIVE OF ANY PERSON OR ORGANIZATION OTHER THAN HIS COLLEGE, SHALL BE INELIGIBLE TO REPRESENT A CONFERENCE INSTITUTION FOR THE BALANCE OF THE SCHOOL YEAR.

• • • •

The commissioner stated that the rule was dormant. We copied the above excerpt from IIAC rules which were revised in 1958 by conference representatives. In the spring of 1956 Wartburg's baseball squad was shooting for the Iowa loop crown, backed by 6-1 league record.

On Sunday, May 13, the Knights' ace pitcher Leon Webrand and star catcher Stan Kittleson, a three letterman, went into Minnesota and played in a baseball tourney. On Monday, May 14, Qnight diamond coach Earnest Oppermann declared them ineligible and notified conference officials thusly. No squabble. No fuss. The remainder of the local baseball slate was dotted with losses, because a rule is a rule.

• • • •

Dubuque officials technically should have handled matters the same way. They didn't and sacrificed personal face to Duke, who in turn made the whole conference look lax by his transgression. Parsons has a beef coming too. Young, a stellar performer on Coach O. B. Nelson's club, missed two important league games, and one of them was a loss to Dubuque on the Spartans' court. The other was an overtime decision dropped at Upper Iowa.

• • • •

In order to recover from this recent relapse, the conference will now have to take action on one of two proposals. Either — 1. Undo what is done and do what is right, or 2. Change the rule so that such player action will not be a direct violation of league arbitrations.

Stricter measures are needed if the conference is to regain stature. An excellent path to recovery would be opened if Duke would get out his Iowa Conference Rule Book, read it carefully, then do what is proper. Unless to him a rule is a rule is a rule, but . . . . . .

Clinton II Drops From Unbeaten IM Ranks

TWO SKINS, Bill Streng and Jack Horner vie with an unidentified shirt in Thursday intramural "wracktivity."

Intramural action this week eliminated Clinton II from the unbeaten ranks to leave Cotta House the only unbeaten team. North Hall edged Clinton II, 44 to 42, Thursday night while Cheboygan forfeited to Cotta Monday night.

LeRoy Boseneiler and Darrol Bauer are tied for high scorer with 68 points each in four games. Boseneiler chalked up 20 points Thursday night for Clinton II while Bauer pumped in 17 for Waverly.

According to IM chairman Dave Jensen, there will not be any intramural games played this week on account of semester exams. Play will resume the following week.

Campus Snow Plowed Under

By Linda Mugridge

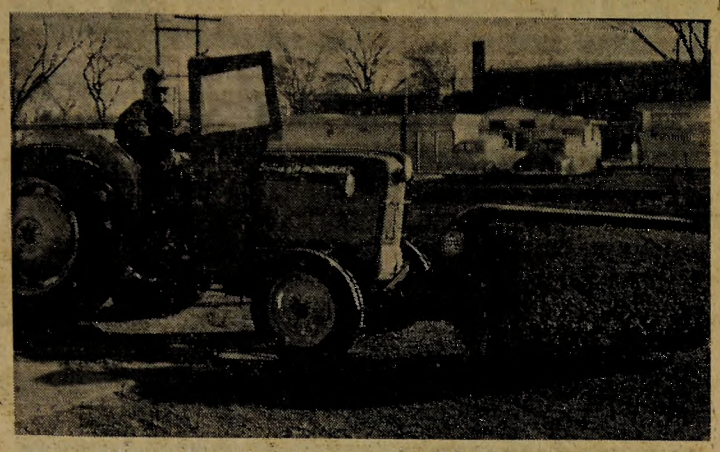
What comes down must go up — or at any rate, elsewhere.

That's the Wartburg janitorial attitude toward that substance of many winter songs, snow. Devices used for transporting it from campus sidewalks to elsewhere, usually beside the walks, include a tractor-propelled trial sweeper attachment, a jeep-propelled plow and hand-propelled shovels.

"Snow removal is a big problem at best," said Wartburg Business Manager Herb Engelbrecht.

One of the chief snow difficulties listed by Engelbrecht is removing the fluffy white stuff before students trample it into a hard, slippery mass. When snow falls during the day, janitors try to keep the walks immediately around the buildings cleared. This is not only for the students' benefit, however. It saves custodians the trouble of coping with tracked-in snow. Night snow is attacked by janitors as early as 4 a.m.

Each custodian shovels the walks in his own particular area; for instance, janitor Charlie Pichelmeyer tackles the snow around Knights Gymnasium. Later, Pichelmeyer takes the jeep and plows along other campus walks, such as the long ones leading up to the Gym.



WHAT? NO SNOW? But Charlie Pichelmeyer, Dean of Wartburg custodians, will be ready if the new Workmaster, shown above, is finally purchased by the college.

"I don't much like to use the tractor, though," said Pichelmeyer with a chuckle. "It's a lot colder than the jeep."

If brushes, plows and shovels fail to do the job, the janitors resort to sand and salt. But the best snow removing device refuses to be manipulated. Spring comes whenever it feels like it.

'Oh, Baby!'

Flash! New arrival at the Pentagon. Eminent visitor is center of interest and attention.

No, not Anastas Mikoyan, but little John Aryanpur, newest member of the Aryanpur family.

John's father is Dr. Manoocher Aryanpur of the Wartburg English Department.
